

Our System of... Midget Advertisements

...Means Giant Values

It enables us to give you about 10 per cent. better values than we could if we had heavy advertising bills to meet. We simply want to impress upon you the lines we carry.

Everyone Knows

We put out more style and clever ideas than all the rest of them put together—so the Question is the Price

A trial is all we want and your CONFIDENCE WE WILL HOLD EVERLASTINGLY.

We specialize $15.00 and $18.00 Suits

We specialize $15.00 and $24.00 Overcoats

We specialize $5.00 Trousers

We specialize $3.50 Vests

We specialize $15.00 and $24.00 Rain Coats

We specialize $15.00 and $24.00 Ulsters

We specialize The Finest $3.00 Hat

Money will buy.

The question is not quality any more. Every one knows our quality is the best. THE QUESTION is the PRICE. How do the styles we put out compare with those you have seen from other shops? Just think this over.

Thanksgiving

Coggerly Now on Display

New Shirts

New Neckwear

New Gloves

Gerritt A. Archibald & Co. 38 East Wash. St.

NEGRO WAS HANGED BY A FARMER'S MOB

Continued from Page One.

never wronged a white woman in my life. I know you are going to kill me, but all I ask of you is that you will not shoot me. Will you promise that?"

Cries of "We will" came from all sides, and the negro said: "I am ready. Bless the Lord, I believe in Jesus."

A young man adjusted the noose carefully. He placed the knot below the left ear. Someone said:

"Drive up."

The driver whipped his horses and they jumped forward. The negro's body, with a sudden lurch, banged against the telephone pole, then away from one side to another. The rope sagged a foot, but the negro was three feet from the ground.

The noose tightened and Dillard slowly choked to death. His face turned even a deeper black, his tongue began to protrude, a white foam settled on his lips.

Song from the Mob.

His body became limp and at six minutes after 8 o'clock, fourteen minutes after the wagon moved from under him, Dillard was said to be dead. When this occurred, for the first time, there was evidence of levity from a portion of the crowd, who began to sing: "Just Because He Made Dem Goo-Goo Eyes."

The mob then clamored for souvenirs, the negro's clothing was torn to shreds, and tacks and nails were taken from the telephone pole.

"That'll teach these niggers not to touch white women," said one man in the crowd.

"And we'll do the same thing to the next one who assaults our women."

Cries of "That's right" were heard from every direction.

The negro throughout the evening displayed the utmost nerve and composure. But one time, during the identification, did his nerve seem to fail him. On the way from Lemon's house to the scene of the hanging the negro frequently shouted:

"Bless God, I'm coming home!"

Home in Indianapolis.

To a News reporter, Dillard, who had insisted that his name was George Moore, and that his home was in Tennessee, admitted his name was James Dillard, and that he lived in Indianapolis. He said his mother is Fannie Bush, who lives at No. 1416 in the rear of Missouri street.

He asked that his body be sent to the Rev. Benjamin Farrell, pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist church (colored), Indianapolis, who lives at 1104 North West street.

After the hanging the mob slowly dispersed, but many stayed with the negro.

Sheriff Met the Mob.

Upon the arrival of Sheriff Dudley and his deputies with their prisoner from Lawrenceville, Ill., at the jail, at 4 o'clock, he was met by a mob of determined men, who came here from near Oaktown, where the assault was committed on Mrs. John Lemon.

The men stopped the horses to the sheriff's carriage and rushed after the negro. The officers leveled their revolvers on the men and threatened to shoot and Sheriff Dudley called for citizens to assist him in resisting the maddened men. He tried in every way possible to protect his prisoner.

A leader of the mob looked down the barrel of a revolver and said to the sheriff:

"To shoot a white man to protect a d—d negro brute!"

Several citizens tried to help the sheriff, but the strength of the mob was too great.

Dragged Through the Streets.

The leaders were calm and determined. They seized the prisoner and dragged him through the streets and alleys, taking him down one side of the public square, with an enraged crowd following the moaning negro, who cried that he was the wrong man, that he was innocent.

Maddened men would strike the negro on the head and body, crying out:

"It might have been my wife."

The negro's back and neck were full of shot from the guns of officers who arrested him, and his distress and suffering can only be imagined.

The husbands of the two outraged women were in the crowd, and their presence added to the reckless spirit of the mob. It is alleged that a brother of one of the women was a leader, Milton Davis, the husband of one of the victims, positively identified the negro as the man wanted.

Wanted to Make Quick Time.

Many tried to make quick work of it and hang him in the court house yard, but they took him to a livery stable where they had a wagon, in which they loaded the negro to haul him fifteen miles south of town, so that Mrs. Lemon could see him to decide if he was the man wanted.

The mob was so quietly organized that citizens of the town were not prepared for it all. Sheriff Dudley had sent a telegram stating that requisition papers were required and that a delay of two or three days would be necessary. This was done to quiet any mob spirit that might exist, and the prisoner was placed in a buggy and started to the town. He was brought through back streets and alleys, thinking that no notice would be made of his arrival.

How Sheriff was Fooled.

Telegrams came before stating that the negro was on the way and the men who formed the mob organized silently and quietly. A man drove out three miles from town and assured Sheriff Dudley that there was nothing to fear from mob violence.

The mob was made up of men who live outside Sullivan, and was composed of no great number of men, but it was so effectively organized that it did its work with ease.

DILLARD'S MOTHER FOUND.

She is Fannie Bush, and was Dazed at News of Her Son's Death.

Jim Dillard was an Indianapolis negro, although he had been away from the city much of the time during the last eighteen months. His mother, Fannie Bush, lives in a small house in the rear of 1416 North Missouri street. She works as a servant in the home of E. C. Hedden at 2126 Talbot avenue.

When seen by a reporter to-day and informed of the death of her son at the hands of a mob, she seemed dazed, and did not inquire what crime he had committed. She said her son was nineteen or twenty years old, and formerly lived with her in Gallatin, Tenn. She moved with him to this city about seven years ago.

She described her son as being about five feet nine inches tall, weight about 165 pounds, and of dark brown complexion. She said he had a scar on the bridge of his nose caused by being struck with a stone when a porter at Dillard's formerly worked as a porter at the Columbia Club, the woman said, and he was also a porter in a billiard room. When not employed as a porter he worked at anything he could go to do. The last time Dillard was in Indianapolis, she said, was in June. He left after a few days, ostensibly for Chicago. The mother said she had not heard from him since his departure.

The colored woman said "her Jim" had been arrested here several times, but that none of the charges against him was of a serious nature.

An aunt of Dillard, giving her name as Baker, who is visiting here from Gallatin, said that Dillard's father was Henry Griffin, of Gallatin.

Dillard's police record in Indianapolis is bad. He was tried once on the charge of attempting to assault a white girl, and he had often been suspected of being a thief.

The negroes in the jail on the charge of grave-robbing said they knew Dillard as a negro about town. Cantrell gave the police some information regarding his mother's residence, before it was known who she was. Cantrell said Dillard never ran with any of his gang and that little is known of him except that he was an employee of the Columbia Club when in Indianapolis.

"If he was the right man," Cantrell said, "he deserved what he got. We wouldn't have such a man as that in the grave-robbing business."

Body will be Brought Here.

Mrs. Bush and the Rev. Mr. Farrell, called at the undertaking establishment of Plummer & Buchanan, shortly before noon, and made arrangements to have the body shipped to this city. Mrs. Bush is a member of the Mt. Zion Baptist church, of which Mr. Farrell is pastor. At the home of the preacher it was said that Dillard did not attend church, although he knew Mr. Farrell well. Dillard evidently thought that his mother would seek the assistance of Mr. Farrell, as he requested that his body be shipped to the pastor.

CORONER IS NOW SHERIFF.

Sheriff Dudley Will Ask to be Re-instated.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]

SULLIVAN, Ind., November 21.—The office of sheriff of Sullivan county is vacant by operation of law.

The law enacted by the last Legislature reads that the "coroner shall immediately succeed and perform the duties of sheriff until the successor of such sheriff shall have been duly appointed pursuant to existing law providing for the filling of vacancies in such office, and such sheriff shall not thereafter be eligible to either election or reappointment to the office of sheriff."

The law has a proviso, however, under which the sheriff may, within ten days after the lynching, file a petition for reinstatement with the Governor, and if the Governor finds that the sheriff has done all in his power, he may reinstate him. The prosecuting attorney of the county where the lynching occurred and the Attorney-General must have ten days' notice of the petition for reinstatement.

This is the first lynching since the enactment of the law. The sheriff is liable for damages to the heirs of the lynched man.

John S. Dudley's commission is forfeited and Coroner W. P. Maxwell is ex-officio sheriff of the county. Maxwell is not informed as to this phase of the question, and was at the scene of the lynching to-day acting in the capacity of coroner.

Sheriff Dudley's Statement.

Dudley made the following statement this morning: "When I reached the Illinois side of the river with the negro, I left him in charge of the deputies, while I walked across the railroad bridge to the telephone station."

"I called up W. T. Douthitt, deputy prosecuting attorney, at Sullivan, and he assured me that there was no evidence of a mob in Sullivan; that everything was quiet, and that I would run no risk should I take the man to Sullivan."

"It had been my intention, had I been informed that there was danger in Sullivan, to take my prisoner to Marshall, Ill. But on this assurance I decided to go to Sullivan. Three miles west of Sullivan Mr. Douthitt met me, and again stated that there was no danger. However, as we entered the city, we came through alleys as much as possible, to avoid trouble."

"Nowhere did we see evidence of mob violence until we reached the rear door to the jail, when two or three men came up and tried to pull the negro out of the carriage. I ordered them to let him alone, but they were joined by a crowd, and the negro was hauled from the carriage."

"My deputies and myself fought every inch of the way, but we were soon overpowered and the negro was taken from us. The men who took him were determined to have him and would have taken him even had we shot into the crowd. I will ask for reinstatement, and I believe that everyone who witnessed the struggle will sign my petition to that end."

The Governor, this morning, notified the sheriff that his office was vacated.

Innocent Man Once Sang as an Indiana Mob Was Lynching Him.

The musical demonstration of the Oaktown (Ind.) lynchers, last evening, recalls the lynching of Frank Long, a tramp, at Kokomo, twenty years ago.

He was arrested on the charge of assault and was placed in the Howard county jail. One Sunday midnight a mob took him out, and he was led to the old iron bridge over Wildcat. The rope was placed around his neck, and the leader of the gang stepped up and said:

"Long, your time has come. Do you want to make any statement?"

"No," replied Long, "but I believe I would like to sing a song."

The crowd stepped back, and standing on the old store box with the noose around his neck, Long began "See That My Grave is Kept Green," a popular ballad in those days. He had a good, strong tenor voice, and he sang the song without a tremble. It echoed up and down Wildcat, and it still rings in the ears of men who heard it that Sunday night.

"Now, gentlemen," he said after he had finished, and as he adjusted the rope to his neck.

The box was pulled away from under him.

For years Kokomo people did see that his grave was kept green. It is believed to-day that he was innocent of the assault charged against him.

JUDGE ON PERJURY IN COURT.

He Recommends Vigorous Prosecutions as a Cure.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., November 21.—Judge J. C. Robinson, special judge of the Morgan Circuit Court, has caused comment by the instructions he gave Prosecutor Sedwick yesterday relative to perjury in the court. C. G. Douglass and "Jaybird" Leonard had been acquitted of selling or giving beer to Jacob Jenkins, fourteen years old.

For some time it has been difficult to make convictions in similar cases, owing to perjury. Of the Jenkins case the court said: "There is no doubt about this boy lying in these cases. But something must be done for these miserable wretches who will barter their souls and their honor for a drink of whisky, or to protect the dirty wretches who will furnish it to them."

"A few vigorous prosecutions for perjury will have a wholesome effect upon the character of evidence offered here, and it must be done in order to secure convictions."

HONEYMOON ENDED IN JAIL.

Elwood Bridegroom Arrested on Charge of Contempt of Court.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]

ELWOOD, Ind., November 21.—Elwood Brooks, a factory worker, had his honeymoon interrupted last night. He was married at 6 o'clock, and an hour later was arrested at the side of his bride on the charge of contempt of court at Tipton. Despite his pleading and the tears of his bride he was locked up and spent the night in jail. Sheriff Houston came from Anderson this morning and took Brooks to Tipton.

RUSH COUNTY RURAL ROUTES.

Plans for Sixteen New Ones, When County will be Covered.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]

RUSHVILLE, Ind., November 21.—Rural route inspector McConnell is in Rush county, laying off sixteen new rural routes, which will give free of cost delivery to every citizen of the county. There are at present seventeen routes in operation, and these with the new ones will completely cover the county. The new routes are not to be in operation until July 1.

The Fur Season Is a Failure

WE must dispose of $15,000 worth of Furs at a loss. Your chance is here now. Do not delay. The largest assortment of high grade Furs ever shown in your city.

$6.98 buys a very fine Fox Scarf, worth $12.00
$1.38 buys a very fine Water Mink, worth $4.00
$9.00 buys a very fine Electric Seal, worth $3.50
$23.95 buys a very fine Neaseal Jacket, worth $40.00
$21.00 buys a very fine double stripe Fox Scarf, worth $35.00

Alaska Fur Co., Manufacturers
5 N. Meridian St. 1st Door North of Wash. St.

P. S.—You can select your Furs and have them laid away until the holidays.

Removal Sale

Our lease expires in December, and, owing to lack of room, we are compelled to move to larger rooms. For the next few days we shall offer unheard of bargains in Lace Curtains and Rugs at wholesale prices.

Lace Curtains, usually sold at 65c, now 30c a pair
Lace Curtains, real Nottingham, usually sold at $2.00, now 98c a pair
Lace Curtains, real Nottingham, usually sold at $2.50, now $1.20 a pair
Lace Curtains, real Nottingham, usually sold at $3.00, now $1.40 a pair
Lace Curtains, real Nottingham, usually sold at $3.50, now $1.60 a pair
Beautiful Portieres, usually sold at $4.00, now $2.00 a pair
Rope Portieres, usually sold at $2.50, now $1.20 a pair
Comforts, large size 50c
Blankets, large size 50c
Rugs at wholesale. Cottage Rugs, 5c each; Sash Rugs, 8c each.
Window Shades, 7 feet 12 1/2c

SEE WINDOW DISPLAY

Robertson Rug Co. 137 East Washington St.

LOW RENT PRICES

The Cash & Dove Co.

THE UNDERPRICE STORE

352-354-356-358 MASSACHUSETTS AVENUE

WE ARE LEADERS

OUR SATURDAY BULLETIN

Watch our "ads" for the opportunities to save money. "A penny saved is a penny earned." You earn money buying here.

20 Dozen Silk Waists, $5.00 to $8.00 values, choice to-morrow, all colors, $2.98

CLOAK AND SUIT DEPARTMENT

100 Monte Carlo Jackets, made of best all-wool kersey, extra heavy satin-lined, $15.00 value, special to-morrow—

$9.85

Misses' all-wool Kersey Monte Carlo Jackets, storm collar, strap seams, pearl buttons, colors blue, castor and red, all sizes, $9.00 value—

$5.85

Ladies' "Near Seal" Jackets, 22 inches long, turn-back cuffs, fine storm collar, large revers, handsomely lined throughout, regular $12.00 value, special to-morrow—

$7.45

Ladies' all-wool Double Cheviot Pedestrian Suits, nine-gored, flared skirt, Norfolk jacket, beautifully lined and handsomely tailored, regular price $20.00, Saturday—

$12.85

Ladies' $1.50 Ping-Pong Blouses, in red, blue and white, to-morrow—

$2.98

Ladies' fine Shirtwaists, "Duchess" front, tucked yoke and back, all colors, regular $5.00 quality, Saturday—

$1.48

Ladies' Prunella Cloth Waists, white yoke and front, fancy trimmed, all colors, regular $3.00 value—

$2.98

HOSIERY DEPT

Ladies' 20 Pileed Hose, ribbed—

17c

8 pairs for 1.00—

50c

Ladies' 20c Lisle Thread Hose, fancy striped—

20c

Ladies' Pileed-lined Hose, white—

25c

Ladies' Black and Blue Hose—

25c

See our new line Ladies' Hose for winter wear. Our stock is replete with the best.

EXTRA SPECIALS FOR SATURDAY ONLY

Genuine Peppercell 9-4 Sheetings—15c

15c

Extra Heavy Fringed Towels, size 23x45, regular 12 1/2c quality, Saturday—

8 1/2c

15-inch Genuine Cotton Huck Toweling—10c

10c

50c 15c Collars, all sizes, slightly soiled, choice for to-morrow, each—

9c

UNDERWEAR DEPT

Ladies' Jersey-ribbed Pileed Vests—

22c

Ladies' Small Size Union Suits, in gray and ecru, 50c value, Saturday—

29c

60c Silk Pileed Jersey-ribbed Vests and Pants, Saturday—

75c

60c Jersey-ribbed Pileed Vests and Pants, the famous Set Snug Brand, special for Saturday—

49c

INDIANA'S MOST SUCCESSFUL EXCLUSIVE CLOTHING HOUSE

Rubens
KING OF CLOTHIERS
39 WEST WASH. ST.

SPECIAL OVERCOAT SALE!

HUNDREDS of fine, hand-made, Rubens-guaranteed Overcoats and Suits, at prices absolutely less than ever known for goods of equal quality.

SALE BEGINS TO-MORROW (SATURDAY MORNING)

Lucky if you haven't bought your winter Suit or Overcoat yet—such an offering never came before thus early in the season.

To be a bargain, a purchase must not only be cheap, but advantageous—these are advantageous offerings because they're timely.

These are garments from our regular stock; bright, fresh goods of this season's production, tailored with that careful attention to details of style and thorough workmanship which has always characterized our clothing, and placed it where it stands to-day.

THE BEST READY-TO-WEAR CLOTHING IN THE WORLD . . .

Such refined and elegant garments would never be suspected of having cost less than double these prices.

$7.50 gives you choice of about fifty styles of all-wool Cheviot, Scotch and Cassimere Suits and all-wool Frieze and Melton Overcoats; tailors' price $16.00.

$8.00 is our extremely low price on a large line of splendid all-wool Scotch and Cheviot Suits, and all-wool Kersey and Melton Overcoats; any garment in this lot would cost $18.00 at a tailor's.

$10.00 buys choice of an extra wide range of fine Worsteds, Scotch and Cheviot Suits, and fine all-wool Kersey, Frieze and Melton Overcoats; tailors' price $20.00.

$12.50 is the ridiculously low price we've placed on a wide range of extra fine Worsteds, Scotch and Cheviot Suits, and extra fine Melton, Kersey, Frieze and Melton Overcoats; you couldn't buy the equal of these at a tailor's under $26.00.

Boys' and Children's Clothing!
We're showing an elegant line of Suits and Overcoats for the little fellows; tailored as carefully as our men's clothing, and priced much lower than elsewhere.
To introduce this New Department, We're Making Special Prices on Every Garment—Bring the Boys in Saturday
$1.75 is our price for Suits and Overcoats, which would cost you $3 to $8.50 elsewhere.
$2.50 buys Suits or Overcoats worth $4 to $4.50. All sizes, from 3 to 12 years.
$3.50 is our price for Suits and Overcoats which sell for $6.00 to $8.50 everywhere else.
$4.50 buys extra fine nobby Little Suits and Overcoats, worth $6.00 to $8.00.

RUBENS King of Clothiers
39 W. Washington St.

HEALTH FOR YOU

DR. MALDONADO'S Kidney Pills is a positive cure for Rheumatism, Lame Back, Stiff Joints, Headache, Neuralgia, Stomach and Bowel Disorders, Gravel, Gout, and all ailments from which people suffer. It gives life to the nervous system and